Independence Title Company regrets that we are unable to publish a schedule of weekly property tours. The Texas Department of Insurance considers publication of this information to be a business expense of Producers (including real estate brokers and agents, lenders, mortgage companies and brokers, builders, developers, attorneys, and architects) that Independence Title Company is prohibited by Texas law to pay, contribute, share in the cost of or finance. Additionally, Independence Title Company is prohibited by Texas law from jointly, with a Producer, advertising real property that it does not own for sale or lease.

Furthermore, the Texas Department of Insurance takes the position that an individual or entity (including real estate brokers and agents, lenders, mortgage companies and brokers, builders, developers, attorneys, and architects) who receives a thing of value, such as a schedule of weekly property tours published by Independence Title Company, is subject to monetary penalties for engaging in the unauthorized business of insurance.

If you have any questions, or if you need any additional information please contact me at the number listed above, or contact your local Independence Title Business Development Representative.

Sincerely,
